Creating Connections With Youth Through Play

How to relate to the young in ways that help them relate to you

The Importance of Play

Remembering How To Play

Deepen Connections

Uncover Hidden Agendas

Interact With confidence

Despite your incredible investment of time and energy into your children, have you noticed that the older they get, the more they seem to push you away? Have you wished you could figure out how to relate to them better? Teenagers are the hardest to get close to and yet, connecting even young children can be challenging if we don't know how. Actually it's very simple to get children to let you in. Even children you don't know at all. Imagine rolling on the floor laughing with children or hearing a sigh of relief as they feel safe trusting YOU! Let me help you reach a whole new level of relating to children so you can have fun and love being with them and they will love being with you.
